

Science & Faith

At St Paul's Church, Ryhope, SR2 0HH
6 evening sessions between 13 May-24 June*
Free of charge

Science and religion are often portrayed as though they are at war with each other – Darwin and God; Science and Ethics. This short course presents science and faith as co-existing in a complementary and fruitful relationship.

It looks at the development of science and current theological thinking, and introduces some ethical issues.

The course is designed for people of faith; those with no scientific background at all to those with a science degree.

Come along for 7pm on Monday 13 May or contact the Revd David Chadwick
